WILLIAM WATKINS DIES AT THE AGE OF 84 YEARS

William Watkins, a pioneer of this county, passed away at San Diego on Tuesday last at the ripe old age of 84 years. He was a native of England but came to Redwood City as a mere boy. His father was a sea captain who came around the horn in 1852 on his own vessel which he sold upon arriving at San Francisco. The family shortly afterwards came to Redwood City. The deceased and his father conducted a dairy on the Hawes ranch near town for a time.

Young Watkins started out on his account buying a ranch near La Honda which he farmed for many years. He sold it about five years later and after a short stay in this city, left for San Diego to spend the remainder of his days.

SEMINARY CHAPEL ADORNED WITH MURAL PAINTING

A strikingly beautiful and original mural painting by John MacQuarrie, the noted local Catholic artist, was hung in the new chapel of St. Patrick's Seminary, Menlo Park, on Thursday of last week. It occupies the lunette over the door on the inside of the main entrance of the magnificient Seminary church. It is fitted directly against the wall.

The painting is eight by five and one-half feet in size ,and portrays an ordination ceremony of the Church in the Ages of Faith.

There are four figures in the study, the ordinating bishop in the center before the altar facing the spectator, and imposing hands on the head of the young Levite, who kneels before him and on whom he is conferring priestly powers, being the most impressive.

On each side of the young priest kneel the deacon and subdeacon presenting respectively the chalice and the holy script of the Gospels.

The details of the painting are historically accurate, and were suggested by Most Rev. Archbishop Hanna, who is an authority on Christian archaeology.

Aside from the beauty of the rich ivory, olive and gold tints of the mural, the picture is an excellent character study. The face of the ordaining bishop is that of the late Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco. The accompanying illustration shows that the artist has succeeded well in conveying a speaking likeness of the former beloved prelate who presided over the destines of the archdiocese.

The splendid Seminary chapel which the painting adorns was completed several years ago by Most Rev. Archbishop Hanna in pious memory of Archbishop Riordan. The painting was conceived and executed as a fitting memorial to the great prelate who built the Seminary and cherished most lovingly the institution dearest to his noble heart.

All lines in the painting carry the eyes of the beholder to the central figure of the Archbishop who, though dead, still seems to bless the young men in St. Patrick's Seminary as they pass the portals of the chapel.

The mural painting, "Ordination," is another artistic triumph for the genius of Mr. MacQuarrie who has transformed the interior of the Seminary chapel into a thing of beauty and devotion by his skillful direction and talent.

Other notable pictures to be executed by the artist for the Seminary chapel will be a great painting 45 by 30 feet which will cover the rear wall of the sacred edifice. In the sanctuary other paintings will represent the prophets and the apostles who spoke of Christ.

Besides his work on the Seminary chapel, Mr. MacQuarrie has also shown his great artistic ability in designing the new mausoleum at Holy Cross cemetery.

SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1921

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

President Harding's first message to congress on Tuesday was received with joy by the people of the United States.

The great document will certainly restore the confidence of the people in our institutions and will bring about a better feeling among the nations. It was an admirable address. It is frank, comprehensive and spoken like a sensible man of affairs.

There is not to be acceptance of the League of Nations as formed at Versailles, and, indeed, it looks very much as though President Harding has given the death blow to that covenant.

Here is what the President says about the League of Nations:

"Nearly two and a half years ago the world war came to an end and yet we find ourselves today in the technical state of war, through actually at peace, while Europe is at a technical peace, far from tranquility and little progressed toward the hoped for restoration.

It ill becomes us to express impatience that the European belligerents are not yet in full agreement, when we ourselves have been unable to bring constituted authority into accord in our own relations to the formally proclaimed peace. Little avails in reciting the causes of delay in Europe or our own failure to agree. But there is no longer excuse for uncertainty respecting some phases of our foreign relationship. In the existing League of Nations, world-governing with its super-powers, this republic will have no part. There can be no misniterpretation and there will be no betrayal of the deliberate expression of the American people in the recent election, and, setlted in our decision for ourselves, it is only fair to say to the world in general, and to our associates in war in particular, that the league covenant can have no sanction by us.

The aim to associate nations to prevent war, preserve peace, promote ciallization our people most cordially applauded. We yearned for this new instrument of justice, but we can have no part in a committal to any agency of force in unknown contingencies; we can recognize no super- authority.

Manifestly the highest purpose of the League of Nations was defeated in linking it with the treaty of peace and making it the enforcing agency of the victors of the war. International associations for permanent peace must be conceived solely as an instrumentality of justice, unassociated with the passions of yesterday and not so constituted as to attempt the dual functions of t political instrument of conquerors and of an agency of peace.

There can be no prosperity for the fundamental purposes sought to be achieved by any such association so long as it is an organ of any particular treaties or committed to the attainment of the special aims of any nation or gorup of nations.

The American aspiration, indeed, the world aspiration, was an association of nations, based upon the application of justice and right, binding us in conference and co-operation for the prevention of war and pointing the way to a higher civilization and international fraternity in which all the world might share. In rejecting the league covenant, [illegible] tering that rejection to our own people and to the world, we make no surrender of our hope and aim for an association to promote peace in which we would most heartily join. We wish it to be conceived in peace and dedicated to peace and will relinquish no effort to bring the nations of the world into such fellowship, not in the stir of national soverignty, but rejoicing in a nobler exercise of it in the advancement of human activities, amid the compensations of peaceful achievement.

SENATOR SHORTRIDGE IN ROLE OF VICE-PRESIDENT

During the heated senatorial compaign of last fall the Times-Gazette in advocating the candidacy of Samuel M. Shortridge urged the voters to give their support to him on account of his great ability saying that if elected this ability would be recognized in a short time at Washington and that Mr. Shortridge would become a national character.

The prediction made at that time has been accomplished for on Wednesday when only three days in the senate he was called to preside over that august body. He was the first senator to be called to preside over the Sixty-Seventh Congress by Vice-President Coolidge. This signal honor paid to the California Senator is pleasing to his many friends and admirers in the Golden State.

Veteran attaches of the Senate said it was the first time in their memory that a Republican Senator had been called upon to preside over the upper branch of Congress so early in his first term.

Senator Shortridge presided for an hour and a half this afternoon during the debate over the Colombian treaty and was called upon repeatedly to rule on points of order.

The Vice-President left the chamber to attend a conference. "Will the Senator from California, Mr. Shortridge, take the chair," he asked, indicating the Cherokee strip where California's junior Senator sits.

Shortridge took up the gavel quietly and the debate that had been interrupted went on. Vice-President Coolidge waited half an hour after he had returned to the Senate floor, before mounting the rostrum. While waiting in the rear of the chamber he watched the proceedings keenly during the time Shortridge was called upon to make several close rulings on parliamentary questions.

Shortridge's colleagues congratulated him profusely after adjournment. He was congratulated, first because he was the first member to be called to the chair, and because he broke a record in being called to preside on the third day of his attendance as a member in the United States Senate, something almost unheard of in Senate history.

A CENTRAL STATISTICAL BUREAU.

As one means of bringing greater efficiency into the work of the government, officials are contemplating the abolishment of the census bureau, and the consolidation of its work with other branches dealing with statistics into a single bureau of statistics. At present it is said there is much duplication of work of that nature, and the data is scattered through the various departments. It is planned to centralize the census bureau, the statistical work of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the customs service, Federal Trade Commission and the department of agriculture, as well as other divisions of the federal service that compile igures. The new bureau of statistics would probably come under the department of justice as most of its work would hace a bearing on the country's trade.

HARDING A CONSTITUTIONAL EXECUTIVE

What strange ideas some prominent Democrats have of the purpose of a constitution. Here is the New York World, the leading Democratic organ of the country, saying, "If Mr. Harding intrusts the revision of the tariff and the tax laws to the Republican leaders in Congress, it is safe to predict that they will wreck his administration, unless he determines policies and measures, cahos is inevitable."

Therefore, in view of the World, one-man government is all that can be successful in America. The republican for of government, with its three branches, legislative, executive and judicial, is all wrong, and, in its opinion, an autocrat must be established in the White House to use Congress as a mere rubber stamp. The utterances of the World are those of one who has lost faith in representative government and believes in a temporary dictatorship. That Mr. Harding has certain responsibilities in connection with legislation fully understands those responsibilities, and , furthermore, has no intention of shirking them, may be clearly gathered from a raeding of his utterances. Let us see what those responsibilities are:

The constitution established first the legislative department, declaring that all legislative power shall be vested in a Congress, and it is particularly specified that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House. Article 2, declares that the executive power shall be vested in a President, and it is made his duty, among other things, to give Congress information concerning the state of the Union and to recommend to their consideration such measures as he may deem necessary and expedient. He is given power to veto any measpasesd by Congress, which, however, may be passed over the veto by a two-thirds vote in each House.

There we have in brief form, the respective duties and responsibilities of the Legislative and Executive branches of the government, so far as legislation is concerned. In his farewell address to the Senate, last December, Senator Harding said:

"When my responsibilities began in an executive capacity I shall be as mindful of the Senate's responsibilities as I have been jealous of them as a member, but I mean, at the same time, to be just as insistent about the responsibilities of the executive. Our governmental good fortune does not lie in any surrender at either end of the avenue, but in the co-ordination and co-operation which becomes the two in a great and truly representative popular government."

There spoke a true American—a man of conviction, and courtesy and courage. He seeks neither to shirk responsibilities that are his nor to usurp those that are not. He has not been intimidated by senseless twaddle about a "senatorial oligarchy," nor goaded to ill-advised antagonism toward the legislative branch of the government. The American form of government was based upon the theory of co-operation—co-operation among the states and co-operation among the different branches of the government. Mr. Harding is a man of co-operating spirit, not an autocrat. He will recommend what he deems wise; he will give counsel when it is asked; he will give due consideration to the views of members of the legislative branch if their views differ from his, and, it may be safely asserted, he will have the courage to veto a measure if, al lthings considered, he believes it unwise. He will be a constitutional executive not a super-constitutional autocrat.

FARMER RELIEF.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declares that the predicament in which the farmers of the country now find themselves is more serious than the situation they were in at the close of the Civil war. He says that unless the disparity in prices received by the farmer for his products and those which he pays for his machinery and supplies is removed there is likely to be such a shortage in food production that the United States will have to import foodstuffs on a large scale. Mr. Wallace insisted that urban as well as rural communities must be made aware of the situation so that all may co-operate in meeting the crisis. Partial relief for the farmers was denied by former President Wilson when he vetoed the emergency tariff bill passed by the republicans of the last congress. The repassage of that measure, and its signature by Presidetn Harding will be among the first accomplishments of the special session than convened on April 11. There is not a doubt that Mr. Harding and his advisers, and republican leaders in both houses of congress, will do everything in their power for the relief of the agricultural interests.

EUROPE BUCKING UP

As the nations of Europe inform themselves of the policies directing the Harding administration they are becoming more convinced that nothing is to be gained by suggestions to the United States that the allied debt of $11,000,000,000 to this country be canceled. It was only a few months ago that Great Britain made official overtures to the Democratic Secretary of the Treasury looking to the wiping out of her obligations. She had been led to believe that the international idealism of the former President would find expression in the transfer of that debt burden from the shoulders of Europeans to the backs of Americans, as one of the "supreme sacrifices" that America should make for the benefit of the Old World Since then prominent citizens of England and France have seen fit to harangue their countrymen through the press, telling them that it was America's duty to cancel the obligations as part of her contribution to the war.

But of late there has been a change in tone. It has been publicly asserted in the British House of Commons that Great Britain intended to meet her share of the debt; Sir Philip Gibbs, a prominent exponent of British opinion, who has been making a lecture tour of the United States, makes the same declaration; the Italian government has let it be known that it fully intends to meet its obligations, only asking that privileges extended to other debtor nations be accorded to Italy also; and now comes M. Viviani to our shose his first words being a repudiation of the suggestion that France intends to dodge her debt to the United States, and an unequivocal statement that she will pay.

"No civilization can survive repudiation," pointedly declared President Harding in his inaugural address. Those five words set forth better than volumes could have done the views held by the American executive on European indebtedness to the United States. Their meaning was not lost on foreign ministries, and the change of front they have brought about in discussions of international finance has marked.

WHAT'S WRONG?

The total exports of the Philippines in December were valued at $8,900,000. Of that amount $3,900,000 worth were carried in British vessels, $2,240,00 in American ships and $1,328,000 in Japanese. That is a state of affairs not calculated to provoke enthusiasm among those interested in American shipping. There is no reason why American vessels should not carry at least the major portion of the commerce of the Philippines, and it will be the business of the department of commerce and the new Shipping board to correct the present conditions.

SLUSHING OUT BURLESONISM.

The postoffice department is being cleaned up. A letter was discovered in the Kansas City postoffice that has been four and a half years in traveling twelve miles. With the impetus of a republican administration it has at last reached its destination.

McCANN MAKES NUMEROUS SALES NEAR MENLO PARK

Mark A. McCann, San Francisco broker, reports a very active market in the Menlo Park and Atherton districts and states that he finds a greater demand for peninsula properties this year than last. He also states that most of the purchasers are going to build on account of the drop in cost of building mate....

He reports the following sales as made by him the past week:

One block of 44 lots in the North Fair Oaks tract to Richard Sillik for $4,400, to be improved at once.

To E. G. Tucker 1½ acres in the Fenton tract at Menlo Park, to be improved at once with homes to sell.

To E. G. Tucker and E. W. Knapp 8 lots in the Blake tract, Menlo Park, to be improved with homes to sell.

To J. B. LaPointe 4 lots in North Fair Oaks tract. He will build a home on the lots this summer.

To Frederick Pierce 8 lots in North Fair Oaks tract.

To E. J. Madigan 10 lots in North Fair Oaks tract. He will build homes to sell.

To Donald McLea, half an acre homesite in Fair Oaks tract. He will improve with a home at once.

He reports the opening up of the O'Keefe remount tract, near the base hospital and also the Ravenswood Acres on the bay road in North Palo Alto. Both of these tracts will be sold in one to ten acre lots to suit on easy terms to be used for small farming and homesites.

CLOSE CO-ORDINATION

It is announced by Attorney General Daugherty that the policy of the government with respect to so-called political prisoners will be referred to congress for determination. The executive department has attempted to map out no general course of action, it being understood that the judiciary committee of the senate would draft legislation dealing with the problem. Senator Thomas Sterling of South Dakota, a member of the committee, has been in confidence with the attorney general regarding the matter. How different is this close coordination between the executive and legislative branches of the government from the aloofness that prevailed during the former administration. Congress then did the bidding of the autocrat in the White House, but now the tendency is precisely in the opposite direction.

SENTENCE OF Y. M. RUIZ TO BE PRONOUNCED TODAY

Y. M. Ruiz, who was to be sentenced on Thursday by Judge Buck for an assault with a deadly weapon, the crime of which he was convicted by a jury in ten minutes in the superior court on Tuesday, was postponed until this morning at 10 o'clock.

Ruiz was charged with having attempted to shoot Police Officer Joe Roza in the back when the officer went to arrest him for creating a distrubance on the night of March 14 at the home of a neighbor at Five Points.

Ruiz was defended by Attorney J. J. Bullock, and testified in his own behalf that he made no atempt to shoot the officers and merely attempted to hand him the weapon. His testimony was unsupported, however, and it took the jury just ten minutes to arrive at a verdict.

BUICK MOTOR CARS

For years the demand for Buick cars has always exceeded the supply—even when Buick production mounted to 500 cars daily. Because of the material curtailment of of motor car production this winter, the country faces a decided shortage of quality cars this spring and summer.

Consequently Buick dealers are adising motorists to place their Buick orders now because orders must be sent to factory months in advance of delivery.

The reason why the demand for Buick cars has always exceeded the supply is more pronounced than ever in the 1921 Buick. Coupled with the noted Buick power and dependability are added riding comfort easier control and a beauty and grace that fittingly express Buick worth.

Authorized Buick service insures full return on Buick investment.

BANK OF ITALY REVIEW OF THE PRUNESITUATION

Prunes on the breakfast table of that great American Institution, the Family, with more prunes in the kitchen for second helpings, will go a long way to cure the situation now existing in the prune industry. For there is trouble and plenty of it for those interested in the production and marketing of prunes.

In brief there are four specific ailments that seem generally current among the prune people:

1.—The supply.
2.—The subject of prices.
3.—Freight tariffs.
4.—Internal or family difficulties.

Any consideration of what is in store for the prune industry and what the year holds out in potential profits must recognize the existence of these four elements and weigh pro and con the gloomy and cheerful aspects of each. It is possible that the coming months will add fuel to the flame of adversity—but there is no need to borrow trouble. And moreover there is as much reason to expect that the time will cool the fire of growing discontent and bring forth a more finely tempered implement for the commercial purposes of the prune industry. It seems then, that the four pronged dilemma of the present, is enough to deserve undivided effort of solution.

1.—The Supply.

In 1919 prune production in California totaled 113,000 tons as against 95000 tons in 1920—with a comparative value of $72.00 per ton the former year and $200.00 per ton at latter. Unfortunately the peak price was not obtainable as each installment of the 1920 crop matured, and were the prospect of rising quotations in 1919 encouraged active bidding there was no such tendency expressed in the offers for the 1920 harvest. It is conceivable, however, even in the face of this bearish factor that with a 100 per cent organization of the prune growers or at least a weighty major portion, the market could have been maintained relatively constant, with careful feeding.

But the cross purpose of the independents and the association, with unmerciful strength too nearly equal, prevented a successful market assault, and under the offers from the unorganized growers, bidding slid into the downward groove, regulated by supply and demand.

The result was quite up to expectations. Growers, sensing the start of the boom toboggan withheld their stocks, and the warehouse supply began its accumulation. Relief has been slow to come and meanwhile the 1921 crop is in bloom. While authorities disagree, and estimates vary in the extreme, it is at least conservative to hazard that more than 50 per cent of the total weight of the 1920 crop is yet unmarketed.

The picture looks dark, yet it has a bright aspect.

Herculean efforts are afoot to move thes upply, and there is good reason to believe the task will be accomplished. Perhaps not without some additional price sacrifice, but with at least a reduction of loss to the minimum. A gigantic advertising campaign has been launched in the east to stimulate prune consumption: results are already felt, the growers assert, and as the work proceeds they anticipate stronger reaction. Optimism characterizes their attitude toward the movement of supplies on hand and the thought they voice now, is no longer the reduction of this carry-over, but a concern for the proper direction of this powerful force in marketing the new yield in 1921.

It seems at the moment that the disposal of the supply on hand will find its agent in the efficiency of advertising. If so then there is a tool of future value to the prune industry, forged from the fires of the 1920 crisis.

There is certainly a happier tone to the situation as far as the present supply is concerned when viewed from this angle, and while it is yet too early to forecast with accuracy the potent effect of this new influence, nevertheless on the basis of this improvement there is an inclination to approach the second or price phase of the prune situation with greater confidence.

NEW TRACT OF LAND SOON TO BE PLACED ON MARKET

The new tract about to be placed upon the market by the University Realty Company, and known as Stanford Week End Acres, is meeting with considerable local attention. It lies along San Francisquito Creek, near the old stock farm at Stanford University, just as one starts toward Portola and Woodside.

The transaction originated with a sale last week through the University Realty Company by Carmelita Mezes Wynne, who sold to the Tacoma Land Company her entire remaining holdings. Mrs. Wynne is the daughter of Sydney Mezes, who purchased 22,000 acres of land from Arguello, about 1852. This great rancho extended from San Mateo Creek in San Mateo to San Francisquito Creek, now the boundary of Palo Alto. Bit by bit the family sold off portions of the immense holding until the park-like strip at the beginning of the paved road to Portola was all that remained.

For many years this area lying between the County Highway and the Creek has been used as a picnic ground by the people driving from San Francisco and the Peninsula. It is now being cut into small parcels of from one-third of an acre up, to be used for week-end outings, and will be disposed of upon generously easy terms. Although the surveyors are still busy platting the ground, some of the property has already been sold. The stream, numerous oaks, laurels and other trees, together with its great accessibility make the land rarely attractive to anyone interested in having a small outing place. Also, the soil being of a silt character, gives promise of a wonderful ground for berries, flowers and vegetables.

HIGH-CLASS ATRACTION AT THE SEQUOIA THEATRE

The attraction at the Sequoia Theatre, Redwood City, Monday and Tuesday, will be "Dinty," in which young Wesley Barry makes his bow to the picture-loving public in his first actual starring vehicle, directed by Marshall Neilan, who also wrote the story himself.

Advance reports state thta the freckle-faced youngster of "Daddy Long Legs," "Don't Ever Marry" and "Go Get It" has in this latest film made the finest performance of his brief but brilliant career.

At any rate, Mr. Neilan has surrounded Wesley Barry with an excellent cast of players, including such favorites as Colleen Moore, J. Barney Sherry, Marjorie Daw, Pat O'Malley, Noah Beery, Tom Gallery, Kate Price Tom Wilson and Newton Hall.

The balance of the cast includes Walter Chung, a young Chinaman, and Aaron Mitchell, a pickanny, who plays the part of Barry's chums in "Dinty."

"Dinty" is the tale of a fighting San Francisco news boy, "Dinty" O'Sullivan. It deals with his rise to the head of the Newsboys' Trust, and the prominent part he plays in running down a band of Malay highbinders who have stolen the assistant district attorney's fiancee. Pathos, humor and romance and adventure are the four elements that Marshall Neilan has woven into the plot.

Marion Fairfax, the clever subtitler of "Go and Get It" and other screen successes, prepared the scenario for "Dinty" from Mr. Neilan's story. Many of the scenes were photographed in San Francisco's Chinatown and waterfront, and some remarkable effects are said to have been obtained.

David Kesson was the photographer, and Ben Carré the art director "Dinty" is Marshall Neilan's latest release through Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

MENLO PARK NEWS OF ALL SORTS

Last Monday evening 31 Companions of the Forest attended a theater party at San Francisco. The entire Alcazar theater was taken over that evening by the Ancient Order of Foresters and the Companions of the Forest of the Pacific coast. The members of the local lodge motored to the city and enjoyed a good performance.

Peter Mullany, a native of Ireland, aged 56, a former resident of Menlo Park, died suddenly at San Rafael on Monday while walking to the emergency hospital. He was a prominent member of the Elks. While here he was employed by E. W. Hopkins. Mr. Mullany left here about 15 years ago. He was a nephew of Mrs. B. Burke and James and Patrick Hopkins, who attended the funeral on Wednesday at San Rafael.

A. G. C. Hahn was re-elected fire commissioner at the election held on Monday last. Mr. Hahn has been the chairman of the board of fire commissioners for a number of years.

Thomas Fitzpatrick has secured a good position at Hillsborough at the home of William H. Crocker. He left on Thursday to assume his new position. Mr. Fitzpatrick has been prominent in local political circles for some years.

W. T. Casey the local plumber, sought the headwaters of the Uvas creek, Santa Clara county, last Sunday and came home with a big basket of trout weighing a pound each. Mr. Casey is an expert fisherman and it is said knows every trout by his or her first name.

Mrs. Harry Sherman, president of the house of churchwomen of the San Francisco diocese, talked Wednesday afternoon to the women of Trinity church at Menlo Park in the parish hall.

Dr. Henry Frank and Rev. Stanislaus Dempsey, former acting pastor of the Church of the Nativity, debated the question, "Should America recognize the Irish Republic?" last evening in Native Sons' Hal, San Francisco. Father Dempsey is accounted one of the ablest orators in San Francisco and is well informed on the Irish question.

The "hard times" party given by the Companions of the Forest Saturday was a great success, socially and financially. The Companions lived up to their promise and gave a good time, good "eats," good music. Their next affair will be a May day picnic given on Sunday, May 1 and will be an old-fashioned basket picnic to be enjoyed by all the families of the Companions and their friends, in the mountains.

The Bear Gulch Water Company, which operates here and in other places in the third township, on Monday applied to the state railroad commission for authority to purchase from the Spring Valley Water Company that part of the Spring Valley system known as the "Portola Woods system." The price is given at $4,504.91, and if the authority is granted it is ununderstood the Bear Gulch Company will immediately begin the supplying of water to consumers along the system instead of the Spring Valley Water Company. The Bear Gulch Water Compay is owned entirely by the state university, having recently bought the interests of the Felton estate. The university is now seeking to be relieved of paying taxes on the property.

The Oakland Elks on Sunday afternoon gave an entertainment at the Red Cross house at the base hospital, which the patients voted one of the best ever staged there. Fifteen acts constituted the program, showing an amazing amount of vaudeville talent among the east bay members of the antlered herd. Not ending their attentions with entertainment, the visiting Elks brought a great quantity of cigarettes, home made cakes, playing cards, handkerchiefs and various articles of apparel which were given for distribuiton among the men. A set of 4 phonograph records was left in each ward having a machine.

Supervisor John MacBain and J. G. Mason, trustee of the Menlo Park grammar school, motored to Sacramento on Thursday afternoon to appear before the legislature to oppose the bill giving high school districts a right to annex adjoining territory of another district outside the county. The bill was prepared by Jones of Santa Clara. The purpose of the bill is to enable the people of Runnymede to secede from the Sequoia high school district and become a part of the Palo Alto union high school district. The people of Menlo are opposed to this proposed measure and will fight it to the bitter end.

A special sale this week only will take place at the Menlo shoe store. Men's tony calf price $8.75. Modified English mahogany blucher price $6.25. Everyone should take advantage of these low prices.

Miss Clare, daughter of Mr. and and Mrs. Edgar G. Humphrey, for many years residents of Menlo Park, was married on Monday, April 4, to Joseph H. Smith. The young couple will be at home at Arroyo Grande after April 10, where the bridegroom is publisher of the Arroyo Grande Record-Herald.

Menlo Trinity Episcopal Church was crowded to capacity last Saturday night when the nuptials of Miss Mary Elena Macondray and Herman Phleger were solemnized. Rev. Hugh Montgomery performed the impressive ceremony and pronounced the words that made "two hearts beat as one." The bride, who is a very pretty girl, dark and petite, showing her Spanish ancestry, wore a wedding gown of soft satin. It was simple, made with little trimming. There was a long train of beautiful old rose point lace, which was the wedding veil of her grandmother, the late Mrs. Selby. The brides' wedding veil was of tulle, with a cap of the same old lace as the train. She carried orchids. Miss Ynez Macondray was her sister's only attendant and wore a chiffon dress of a pale shade of lavender with a sash of light blue. She carried spring flowers. Carl Phleger was the best man. The ushers were Archibald Tinning and Farnham Griffith. The bride's brother, Ensign Atherton Macondray, gave her away. He is on the staff of Admiral Hugh Rodman and came from San Diego for the welding. After the church ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride in Atherton. The bride and groom had a group of friends at their table, which included Miss Macondray, the best man and ushers, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Kaime, Mr. and Mrs. Dearborn Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McIntosh, Miss Helen Pierce and a few others.

The beautiful home of Mrs. Florence Moore will soon be completed. She expects to move into it on or before May 1. The building, which is of mission style of architecture, is to cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. A number of men under the supervision of two expert landscape gardeners from the University of California are engaged in laying out and beautifying the grounds. The main entrance to the elegant home is from Valparaiso avenue. When all the contemplated improvements shall have been finished the Moore place will be one of the most attractive homes on the peninsula. It adjoins the summer estate of Senator Shortridge. A contract was filed yesterday in the recorder's office in Redwood City covering the electric fixtures to be installed in the handsome home. The work is done under the diretcion of Architect Albert Farr of San Francisco by Grattan J. English, electric contractor of San Francisco. The total cost of the electric fixtures in the house, garage and outbuildings is given at $5,000. The home is now nearing competion and the fixtures are to be installed immediately. R. S. Moore of the shipbuilding firm of Scott & Moore of Oakland, is a very wealthy man. During the war his concern employed 7,500 men at the big plant.

George Vincent, pioneer painter of this place, died suddenly last Saturday afternoon from an attack of heart trouble. He was standing in front of Mr. Strong's tailoring shop when he fell and passed away in a short time. Mr. Vincent was a native of Stockton, aged 53 years. He was a prominent member of Menlo Parlor, N. S. G. W., and the local painters' union. Mr. Vincent came here 17 years ago with his wife, who died some years ago. He was highly respected and esteemed by all. He is survived by three children, Ilah, and Dorothy Vincent, who are attending the high school at Redwood City, and Harold Vincent. The funeral took place on Monday from Trinity Episcopal church, where the services were conducted by Rev. Hugh Montgomery. Many friends and relatives attended. Interment was in Alta Mesa cemetery. The family has the sympathy of the entire community in its sad bereavement.

The baseball season opens tomorrow, when the first game is scheduled to take place between the local team and the American Legion team of Redwood City on the Redwood City diamond. An interesting game will take place on the same diamond next Wednesday afternoon between a local team and the Redwood City high school team. The twirlers for the local ball players will be William Mitchell, Santa Clara University, and Robert Glynn, also of the same institution. The catchers are to be John Morey and Paul Walsh.

Mr. Caruso has established a bus line between Palo Alto, Portola and Woodside via the state highway and Santa Cruz avenue. This gives the people of Menlo Park a good service to these localities at reasonable rates.

Vegetables

Sixty-three million dollars ($63,000,000.00) is the value of the vegetables raised in the state during 1920.

California with her wonderful all-the-year growing climate, is the leading vegetable-producing state of the union.

The Bank of Italy has always co-operated with the growers—and it operates branch banks in almost every important section of the state where vegetables are grown on a large scale. Last year the growers received the benefit of loans which were made to the various fruit, vegetable, packing, canning, and stock-raising interests to the extent of over fifty-nine million dollars.

The Bank of Italy specializes in backing up agriculture.
